Chau - Small & Simple Rural Style Home This Maang Chau home is something special. It's about 2 hours north of the city of Hanoi, and it's a very pretty spot. There are two homes here, and they are situated on a riverbank. If you are into remote living in Vietnam, this is the place.

Both are rather simple, but there are cool details to each. The one on the left is a newer (2007) version of the other (1966) one. They both have high ceilings, rough board walls, and lack windows. The newer one has a cooler modern feel than the older version. Check out the sectional in the lounge! The interior is rich in the color orange that is so popular in Vietnam. The doors are rough plywood and stained with a mix of many colors. This makes for interesting contrasts. The furnishings in this house are of the white type, with geometric shapes. Both homes have open plan living and dining areas, and even a small kitchen with another bathroom. The most exciting aspect of the one on the left is the garden. It's a very cool minimalist garden, complete with a gazebo. The view outside is also rather picturesque. The outside of the smaller home is painted, but the one on the left is a little darker and richer. Both have similar details: ramps, windows, and a pretty courtyard. There isn't much to say about these homes. They are pretty simple and simple to live in. They are warm and quite intimate. So if you are looking for a retreat from the modern world, look no further than this tiny village.

There are these two cute homes, that happen to be incredibly simple in design, and extremely quaint. We really can't get enough of them! Both homes are actually for sale. You can check out all the details here. Here are a few more pictures of the interior
